

Would John Roberts deny access to our courts?

His record suggests he very well may. Throughout his career, Roberts' writings, arguments, and decisions have challenged the public's ability to go to court to protect their rights and enforce the law. This is an important question. Senators must demand an answer.